Scully, Scott, Murphy & Presser Names New Associate

Chemistry and Biotechnology Specialist Joins Patent Law Firm

Garden City, NY -- Scully, Scott, Murphy & Presser, a leading Intellectual Property Law firm, has announced that Yongzhi (Mimi) Yang, a chemistry and biotechnology specialist, has joined the firm as an Associate. Prior to joining Scully Scott, Yang was a patent attorney at Intellectual Property/Technology Law. Prior to that, she worked at the Washington Legal Foundation in the Litigation Division, conducting legal research. Yang is a member of the American Bar Association, the North Carolina Bar Association, the American Intellectual Property Lawyers Association, and the National Association of Asian American Professionals - NC Chapter.

"We're very pleased that Mimi Yang has joined Scully Scott," said Paul Esatto, Senior Partner at Scully, Scott, Murphy & Presser. "Her training and experience in the Chemical and Biotechnology fields will add to our successful practice in those areas." Esatto added, "Mimi is a strong addition to our experienced team. She'll help us deliver highly technical services to our expanding client base in her areas of specialty."

Yang's practice is concentrated in the areas of patent procurement and patent portfolio management. She has prosecuted patent applications in the fields of chemistry, biotechnology, advanced materials, semiconductor manufacturing, and microelectronics. She has also conducted patentability, freedom-to-operate, validity, and infringement analyses, and counseled clients on issues relating to IP acquisition, licensing, technology transfer, and patent litigation.

Yang received her B.S. Analytical Chemistry from Hunan Advanced College of Building Material in China. She received her J.D. from Texas Tech University School of Law. Yang will receive an MS in Bioinformatics from North Carolina State University in December 2005.

Yang is registered to practice before the United States Patent and Trademark Office.
