Scully Scott Partner Retires After 20 Years at the Firm

Ken King and Wife to Do Missionary Work in Africa

Garden City, NY -- Scully, Scott, Murphy & Presser, a leading Long Island Intellectual Property Law firm, has announced that firm partner Ken King has retired after practicing law at the firm for 20 years. Ken and his wife Mary will soon start to receive training for their planned missionary work in Africa and Central America. King will remain Of Counsel to the firm, concentrating his time on client counseling and opinions.

"The retirement party for Ken King was a very emotional experience," said Paul Esatto, Senior Partner at Scully, Scott, Murphy & Presser. "We've worked together for so many years on a wide variety of engagements, including patent and trademark protection of software, complex manufacturing systems, and e-commerce applications. We're sorry to see him leave, but we wish him the best in his new endeavors. Over the last few years we've selectively added new partners to the firm to give us new vitality, to drive our continued growth, and to satisfy the increased demand for our services."

Ken and Mary King will soon start their training for short term -- 30 to 60 day -- missions. They will take courses in community health, missionary medicine, and water technology. Soon after their training, they will return to Ghana to continue the work they started two years ago, when they helped to establish a medical clinic. Scully, Scott, Murphy & Presser recently donated $2500 to a fund set up to help the Ghana clinic. After the Ghana trip, the Kings plan to do other missions to developing world countries in Africa and Central America.
