Scully, Scott, Murphy & Presser Names New Associate

Ceramic Engineer Harry Hild Joins Firm as Patent Attorney

Garden City, NY -- Scully, Scott, Murphy & Presser, a leading Intellectual Property Law firm, has announced that Harry Hild, a Ceramic Engineer, has joined the firm as a patent attorney. Prior to joining Scully Scott, Hild was a research specialist at Saxon Glass Research Facility. Prior to that he was an engineer at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft.

"We're very pleased to have Harry Hild join our firm," said Paul Esatto, Senior Partner at Scully, Scott, Murphy & Presser. "His training and experience in a variety of ceramic engineering and material science disciplines will enhance our Intellectual Property practice in those areas." Esatto added, "And, Harry's skills will complement our deep team of technology experts, assisting us in meeting the expanding demand for our legal services and helping us to achieve our goal of growing the firm."

Hild will assist in patent prosecution and opinions, and intellectual property audits for a variety of U.S. and international Scully Scott clients -- particularly in the areas of semiconductor processing and mechanical technologies.

Hild earned a B.S. degree in Ceramic Engineering, concentration in Materials Science, at the New York State College of Ceramic Engineering at Alfred University, and a J.D. at Franklin Pierce Law Center, Master of Intellectual Property.

Hild passed the New York State Bar exam and will be admitted to practice law in New York in 2003. He is registered to practice before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office.
